MS is an incredibly cruel, devastating disease that impacts the way a person's body works. As I spoke, I realized that I didn't really understand how strong the internal battle for my friend was. People who I thought knew her very well had not fully understood what was going on. This is not at all unusual. It seems we have much more understanding about the devastation MS can cause than we do about the mindset of someone going through a battle against their disease. To my friend, she has no choice in the matter, she has to fight her disease if she hopes to ever reclaim her health. Here are a few snippets of her illness, and my thoughts on the matter. My friend's father is currently fighting his fourth bout of MS. He's been fighting the disease since 1997, and these are his current symptoms: he gets a cluster of days where he can't find his equilibrium, and he's easily startled. He has all of the classic MS symptoms, and his brain's ability to regenerate is impaired, which makes it a lot more difficult for his brain to function. Every day is a struggle, and he can't play any musical instrument because it affects his hand coordination. So when her mom asked her if she wanted to keep playing the piano after her dad got sick, she decided to stay away from it. Another symptom that she shares is a deep sadness. She expressed in a recent conversation that she could never understand why anyone would want to go through such pain. She struggles with depression, and it's become her nemesis of a companion. Here's my thought on that: Just the other night, she was trying to answer some very basic questions like "What would you say to someone who is losing their ability to walk?" She couldn't even imagine such a thing. She couldn't imagine how she would be when she was no longer able to walk, and not even think of the discomfort, pain, and despair that would bring. She could only imagine how horrible it would be for her dad, and she 0cc13bf012

Добавление к чему: Мой вопрос исправил, используется инсталляция программы под Winx уже версия 2019.05. На моём жестком диске и в винде (плюс в систему "Добавлено" диска всё показало без ошибок). И компа и минус выдают. Но проблема в том, что через Acronis-сервис не отображается то что на мне. Комментарии можно почитать на других сайтах и вопросов тоже. По русскому вроде я не должен писать ничего кривое.

Может кто то знает ответ на вопрос? А: Решение самое простое! Нужно снова за

The State of Python Continuing from Part 1, here we take a look at the state of the Python programming language and the community that supports it. The Global State According to a recent survey by Python developer survey company, Python's Global State shows the following, with the numbers are percentages: Python is the language of the future for both new and experienced developers. The active developer base is growing. Python is the highest performing language at every level, from individual developers to supercomputers. Python is the second most popular language on GitHub, outpacing NodeJS and Ruby. Python is the highest ranked language on Stack Overflow. The State of Python-the-Language Every month, I review the status of the Python language from what's in the Python language definition documents to the state of Python core libraries and how third-party libraries support the language. From the Python Language Design Principles, I look at: Python is a beautiful, readable, expressive, and efficient programming language, with an extremely simple and uniform syntax. From the Python Language Reference, I will focus on the big three of the language: The Paradigm of Python, which is an expression statement, evaluation mode, and operator precedence. The type system. Classes. The Paradigm of Python: Programming is Expression Python is an expression-based language with optional typing. An expression statement is a single production with a single identifier. The expression must represent a computation or side effect, or a mapping of names to values. Keyword arguments are matched as described in the language definition. A self-binding expression binds a name to an object. The only built-in form of expression statement
