

Impressed with the results of the “HyperMotion Technology”, the developers believe it will make FIFA “the most exciting and authentic football video game ever.” When you purchase this game on a disc on a console or via a digital download, it comes with demo versions of FIFA 18 and FIFA 17. “HyperMotion Technology” is the first time that FIFA has used motion capture in-game to provide in-depth elements for gameplay and player movement. Collectively, the developers have captured thousands of hours of data and studied the current version of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Men's and Women's Championships in order to ensure authenticity of the game content. "This technology allows us to make a game that truly reflects real-life football. Just like today's players, our FIFA players also use their arms, legs and heads in a variety of different, dynamic ways to achieve success on the pitch," explained Aaron McHardy, Creative Director at EA Sports. "From a design perspective, we're taking our learnings from player feedback and working with them to ensure the game is as balanced and as tactical as possible." In addition to incorporating real-life movement into the game, the developers at EA have also brought FIFA's iconic licensed teams to life in more detail than ever before. What's new in Fifa 22:

- New Features: Pro Evolution Soccer 2017 remains the main mode to use on your PS4, however the new feature here is the 'Manager Perspective', a new feature which allows you to watch the match from the Manager's perspective. This also means you can call 'subs' instantly and change formations without having to restart the match. FIFA Soccer 2017 also got the new feature, the player likeness. This is great and does update your players on the pitch, saying what position you put them in, and you can also name them and personalise your players. FIFA 20 introduced the new 'Team of the Year', a new feature which allows you to see how you look against the best players in the world. This includes the best players in each position to give you a great head to head mention.
- New Team-Based Multiplayer: This mode is the best part of the game as it lets you play with friends and other players out there. With this mode all new for Fifa 22, you can see who is winning at the same time. You can also see who is 'Man of the Match'.

- The New Manager Perspective: This allows you to watch the match from the Manager's perspective
 - New Spectator Mode: You can now take a seat this time around and watch the match from a true football fan's perspective
 - New Player Creator: You can now create your own player and customize as many elements as you want using the creation tools
 - PES Trailer: Featuring the new Mexican National team in the World Cup, you can now watch PES trailer and the scenes where you can see the players come through over the footage
