I don't believe for a minute that Microsoft isn't going to release a phone with Windows 8.1, and the reason why I believe that is because Microsoft already made a post on its official Windows Blog post that suggests just that. The post is a about a new version of Windows Phone that is coming in the next couple of weeks. The name of this version? Windows Phone 8.1. Apparently the next version of Windows Phone will be a major update to the OS that will have improvements to multimedia, Internet Explorer, security and UI as well as new features like code sharing between desktop and mobile apps. The post was actually going over the history of Windows Phone updates and what improvements were made to Windows Phone 7.8 and Windows Phone 7.9. As Microsoft explains, Windows Phone 8 did bring a new UI for the Windows Phone OS. That new UI was called Windows Phone Silverlight and the problem with it was that it was actually a bad UI and users didn't like it. The difference between Windows Phone Silverlight and Windows Phone 8 was that the Windows Phone Silverlight UI was actually the one from Windows Phone 7.8 and there was no user interface at all from Windows Phone 7. This was the problem Microsoft was trying to solve with Windows Phone 8.1 and all the improvements that should be coming from Windows Phone 8.1 are actually the improvements made to Windows Phone 8.1. The Silverlight UI is gone. The My People, Messaging Occ13bf012
