Grande jemSomeone wrote a script that allows a user to click on a link and download your files. Here is the script: If you do not have much of a concern for any data leaks, then don't be bothered. But I suggest you edit your post to say whether you actually allow access to the link above. P.S. If you are concerned about people using the script to download lots of data, you can use code to limit the number of files downloaded.The present invention relates to a signal processing technique and, more particularly, to a transmission/reception technique between apparatuses. The World Wide Web (WWW) is an extremely versatile form of information handling and communication, uniquely geared to making available information to users at all times and in all places. The World Wide Web is a wholly distributed medium, in that there is no central site from which material is presented, or for which it is destined. With respect to print media, it is known to provide an HTML-formatted page, such as that shown in FIG. 1, that may include an image, a text box, an audio file, or other objects. Such a page may be used, for example, by a person to make a comment on another web page. In some cases, when displaying such a page, data structures are provided, such as a style sheet, in order to permit the display of the page in a predetermined manner. FIG. 2 shows an example of a page that includes a normal display of text in a manner that accommodates the content of a style sheet. In FIG. 2, the display of the page has been formatted to display information in a predetermined manner. In this example, a style sheet has been included and is indicated by reference number 101. The style sheet 101 includes information that, when displayed, indicates the predetermined appearance to the display of the page. Such as example is typically referred to as “reflow” style sheets. However, when an article or comment made on another page is presented via the World Wide Web, the author may be presented with a view of the article by a computing device, but does not always have the opportunity to review the article until it is presented on the web page. It would be beneficial if such a writer, or user, could review an article as presented by the computing device prior to the article being presented
