Primary care provided for resident welfare and comfort. Evaluation of primary care offered to nursing home residents includes measuring the resident's physical, mental, and psychosocial well-being. A simple, ten-minute health history can be used to elicit information about the resident's health. A nurse can also use an evaluation sheet for formulating care plans for subacute admission if an acute change in health is suspected. Although assessment may be limited to physical examination and one-to-one observation, the nurse will need to employ prompt identification of abnormal signs and symptoms in order to institute appropriate intervention. When needed, the nurse will refer residents to a physician or other health professional. The review of data also allows opportunities for the nurse to develop educational objectives to improve care.

Ellie Hall was at a 'soccer party' and witnessed everything that was to come. The seventh grader says she was hanging out with friends at a birthday party last month at the Calvert County High School soccer field. Someone started filming the game and recording the cheers. That's when Hall says she saw the most amazing thing. She describes it as a white truck speeding through the field in the opposite direction. "The truck was flying and making an u-turn and going down the soccer field and making a U-turn," Hall told 10 News reporter Osha Gray Davidson. Ellie says she doesn't know how it got away with it, but the driver was completely unfazed. "I thought it was a stunt car so I'm just like 'oh they wanna drive around the field,'" she said. "But it didn't even stop." The driver had to put on a pair of goggles to focus on the game, but the experience of chasing a black truck through the field, and the fact that it was almost six years ago, have left Hall with some lingering questions. "I can't get it out of my mind because I'm like, 'How could you do that?'" she said. "How is it that you can just come there and do that and get away with it?" Williams says they're not sure if this will be the last time he'll ride in the back of the truck, but he insists he had no intention of a stunt.

ISLAMABAD: Pakistan on Thursday said the tit-for-tat war with India could escalate to nuclear weapons but stressed that it would not accept the use of such weapons. Pakistan has been a conduit for terrorists who have carried out attacks across the border in India and on other countries. India accuses Pakistan of secretly supporting such groups, a claim Islamabad denies. "But a nuclear war can only happen on our own soil. And our military is ready for any such eventuality," Foreign Ministry spokesman Nafees Zakaria said, when asked if Pakistan would use nuclear weapons if India attacked. Pakistan, which is also home to a nuclear arsenal, has long maintained that the use of nuclear weapons will never be the "way out" of any conflict. The two countries have fought two wars and several smaller skirmishes since their independence from Britain in 1947. Pakistan's military has made nearly one billion dollars' worth of fighter jets and other weapons since 2014, according to Indian media reports. A spokesman at the Pakistan Air Force headquarters, Wing Commander Masood, declined to comment. India, which has not built a nuclear weapon, says Pakistan's military has used its arsenal to violate international law and target civilians. Its air force destroyed two of its unmanned aerial vehicles on Dec 31 after they crossed into Pakistan airspace from the disputed region of Kashmir. India conducted an air strike on what it said were banned terrorist training camps in Pakistan-controlled Kashmir on Feb 26, killing at least 19 troops and inciting tensions. Zakaria said the two countries should approach the United Nations, which is backing sanctions against Pakistan, and "ultimately resolve the vexatious issue" through dialogue. "No country can get engaged in a war of words and ill-will. It is not a new phenomenon," he said. India's Foreign Secretary Vijay Gokhale said his country was ready to talk to Pakistan at any time, but only on the basis of rules of engagement. "We have been very clear over many years that there cannot be talks with terrorists," he said at a news conference in New Delhi. Activists are pressing for India to break from its policy of not directly targeting Pakistan's nuclear sites. India has also suspended talks with Pakistan on a separate conflict, which has displaced more than 50,000 people in a
