this weekend's UFC 217, James "Jameson" Te Huna takes on Russian newcomer Ilya Yarushin. Te Huna has had a career resurgence under the UFC banner since he lost his UFC title to Stefan Struve back in 2014. He's currently 2-1 in the UFC and has beaten Uriah Hall and Renato "Babalu" Sobral in his last two fights. The 31-year-old looked to extend his winning streak when he was scheduled to fight at UFC Fight Night 122 back in April. Unfortunately, the bout was cancelled when he suffered a torn achilles during training. When he returns, he will look to extend his perfect record, but with a dangerous Russian fighter in Yarushin, Te Huna will be facing a fighter who knows his craft. "I'm very happy to be back. I'm looking forward to staying undefeated now," Te Huna said. "I feel like I've got a very good chance to stay undefeated and keep this momentum going. I'm looking forward to fighting at UFC 217. I'm looking forward to fighting at my hometown. I'm looking forward to fighting the style of fight. He's a black belt in judo so I feel like I can get in close and put him on his back.

I feel like I can do that to any of the top bantamweights. I feel like the fact that he's a black belt in judo and I'm a black belt in wrestling gives me a real advantage in taking the fight to the ground." Yarushin is a 9-2 in his professional MMA career with six of his wins coming by way of submission. Six of his nine wins have come by way of submission, including five via armbar. He's also won two of his last three fights. The 31-year-old started his MMA career by the name of Ilya Samsonov. The Russian, who initially was expected to be
