I see that the problem is with the first two regexes: m.sub(m(r'(.)?)(?)), " [] ") m.sub(m(r(' ', " [] ") Both don't work. What is the problem? Thanks A: Use >>> m.sub(m(r'(.*?)), " [] ") 'bla bla bla ' to match the tag correctly. The problem with your regex is the m character that stands for multiline mode. It matches only the first match on a line, not on whole string. "just" is the age of the cranky parent looking down her nose at her more recent child, she is not experienced enough in choosing a rehab center. You are an adult, who has had therapy, counseling, and has become a stronger, better, more effective parent. It has been your choice to put more effort into your children, and I assume that you are at least somewhat aware of the risk of SIDS. One can argue that the risk of SIDS is worth the outcomes that you are talking about. If you can afford it, if you can handle the extra responsibility, if the work is too painful for you, if you can deal with it, I think that the benefit is worth the risk. And if you can't do it, I would hope that your child is in no more danger than they would be in any other home environment. Is this regarding treatment or prevention? If prevention, my opinion is: YES, YES, YES, NO, YES, YES, YES. If you were to listen to any of the campaigns or the FFRF on their radio broadcasts, most of the time they are talking about treatment. I just had this go off the rails. - Jen, Seattle Q: Dear Skeptics.com, I have been at home with my daughter (2 years old) for six months now and her seizures are getting worse. I have tried everything possible to stop them, from new formulas, medications, gluten-free and dairy-free diets, to dietary supplements, homeopathic remedies, and no remedies. I have also tried alternative remedies like flower essences, phototherapy, chiropractic, acupuncture, ultrasound, massage, meditation, etc. Some days I see improvement, some are a little better but not much, and some are much worse. All the time the seizures are getting worse as the days go by, and her neurologist keeps adjusting her medications. I want to help my daughter get rid of her seizures but I do not know what to do. Thank you! Answer: Dear Mom, Thanks for letting us know about your situation. We realize that the seizures are a difficult problem for a parent like yourself to deal with. Unfortunately for you, there is no magic bullet to deal with them.
